Crow To Take Disbarment To Top Court

Fails To Get New Trial on Contempt Conviction in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Disbarred attorney J. Harvey Crow apparently will take his fight to overturn a contempt conviction to the U. S. Supreme Court. The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday refused to reconsider Crow's conviction for practicing law without a license.

The 60-year-old former attorney who lives in St. Paris had said he would appeal to the U. S. court if Ohio's highest tribunal denied him a rehearing.

Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft sentenced Crow to 30 days in jail and fined him $1,500 last Nov. 19 on the contempt conviction. Crow was released from jail on Nov. 29 under $10,000 bond pending his appeal.

In other decisions, the high court: Rejected the self-prepared pleas of two Ohio Penitentiary inmates.

Odus Douglas, sentenced from Cuyahoga County in 1962 for armed robbery, claimed his rights were violated for lack of a court-appointed attorney prior to a preliminary hearing.

Ogle Boyer, sentenced from Miami County in 1951 for assault and for entering a home at night to commit a felony, contended his indictment was void because it recited multiple offenses arising out of the same act.

The Supreme Court said neither contention was valid.

In other cases, the court: Upheld refusal of Lorain County Common Pleas Court to take into account the claimed life tenant rights of Carmen Fairchild in distribution of proceeds from a $25,000 foreclosure sale of Brownhelm Township property in which Stewart H. Fairchild and others held an interest. The Oberlin Savings Bank of Oberlin brought the foreclosure action.

Affirmed 1959 and 1960 personal property tax assessments against Van Wert County Farm Bureau Cooperative Association on profits allocated on its books.

U.S. Potters Group Names Buchanan

J. Ross Buchanan, general manager of the Mayer China Co. at Beaver Falls, was elected to a full term as president of the U. S. Potters Association as the dinnerware manufacturers organization concluded its 85th annual meeting Wednesday at the Pittsburgh Hilton Hotel.

Buchanan, formerly first vice president, had been serving in the presidency since the death in August of W. V. Oliver, president of the French-Saxon China Co., Sebring.

Two other vice presidents were elevated one niche, following the USPA's custom and a new third vice president and associate vice president were elected by the group.

Fred C. Henderson of the Royal China Co. at Sebring became first vice president and Robert M. Wells, a production control executive at the Homer

Rizzo Wears Uniform Well

New Patrol Head Also Is Veteran Of Air Force

LISBON — The new, young officer-in-charge at the Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol has had a "lifetime of service, first for his country, then in civilian law enforcement."

Sgt. Ralph J. Rizzo, 35-year-old father of four, began his duties this week at the well-ordered, eight-year-old post on Route 30, just south of here.

"We're in business not just to arrest people but to protect them as well; this is our job," the sergeant said.

This week the sergeant, who transferred here from the Painesville post, has been getting acquainted with his post and the patrolmen and two dispatchers under his supervision and learning the highways of Columbiana County. "I also plan to get acquainted with all the other law enforcement officers in the county soon," Sgt. Rizzo said.

A native of Canton, Rizzo graduated from Canton Timken Vocational High School in 1945, then served two years in the Air Force. Ten months of his tour of duty he spent with an Air Force supply outfit in Alaska.

He completed the 14 weeks of education in preparation for patrol duty at the Ohio State Highway Patrol training school in Columbus on Sept. 6, 1949.

His first assignment was at the Mt. Vernon barracks where he remained five years. He was then transferred to the Kent post in 1955 where he stayed one year before the state office switched him to Hiram, one of the three Ohio turnpike patrol posts.

COUNTY PATROL HEAD — Sgt. Ralph J. Rizzo (seated), new officer-in-charge of the Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol, is getting acquainted this week with patrolmen and the area under his command since his transfer from Painesville. Standing is the patrol's second high-ranking officer, Cpl. R. D. Young.

After two years of duty at Hiram, he was moved to the Painesville barracks Dec. 1, 1957, where he remained until his assignment here. He was promoted to rank of patrolman 2 upon his arrival in Painesville, putting him second in command. On Feb. 15, 1961, Rizzo was advanced to corporal and intermittently had charge of the Painesville barracks upon the death of two sergeants and one transfer.

Before he began his duty at Lisbon, he was promoted on Nov. 25 to sergeant.

Sgt. Rizzo is married to the former Carolyn Valentine, also of Canton. The couple has four children: David, 11, Joan, 8, Steven, 7, and Ralph Jr., 2.

Senate To Vote on Fund Distribution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate prepared to vote today on slicing up about $150 million for higher education, needy school districts, conservation and recreation, and other state functions.

Joseph Clarifies Council Position

Ford Joseph Jr., president of City Council, said today that City Council may not have the authority to name the W. State St. overpass after John F. Kennedy, or any other person, since the state and federal government had a role in its construction.

He said he feels that Council will name something after the late President of the United States, but at this time isn't sure just what. "We're not going to name just anything after him," Joseph said. "If we name anything, we want it to be something worthwhile."

Included in the bill is authority to spend about $100 million of the $250 million capital improvements bond issue approved by Ohio's voters a month ago.

State lawmakers, bent on completing this resumption of the regular session in a week if possible, put in a busy day Wednesday.

The Senate adopted, 29-3, and sent to the House a resolution to put a $500 million highway bond issue proposal on the May primary ballot.

The House passed, 111-15, an Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed bill which could face a tough time in the Senate.

Representatives also voted, again 111-15, to allow use of about $8 million a year from the state's $42 million to $44 million yearly liquor profits for technical institutes, research centers and the like.

There seems to be little likelihood of passage.

"I Know My Son," Is Woman's Plea

Oswald's Mother Says He Didn't Kill JFK

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Perhaps one day in the year 2063, a school boy will open a history book and read of the Black Friday 100 years before on which President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was assassinated.

His study will bring him to Lee Harvey Oswald, a 24-year-old malcontent, who was accused of the assassination, but was murdered before being brought to trial.

If he goes deeper into the story, he may come across the name of Mrs. Marguerite Claverie Oswald.

Mrs. Oswald, a grey-haired, 56-year-old practical nurse, is the mother of Lee Harvey Oswald.

She, too, may become the subject of history because any inquiry into the nature of her son must turn to the person who played the greatest role in shaping him. That person is Mrs. Oswald.

"Any guilt I have for making him what he was, I will accept," she says. "But this is not for the assassination. I do not care what the FBI says, or what any special commission or court may say. He did not have a trial. He did not have his day in court. I heard him say on television, the same as millions of others heard him. 'I did not kill anyone. I did not kill anyone. I know he never did it. I know my son.'"

The death of her son is another burden in a life littered with millstones, according to her recounting.

Life began for her in New Orleans July 19, 1907, born to Dora and John Claverie. At the age of 2½, she was left motherless.

Little is known of the 22 years following, and she evades discussing her childhood and young womanhood. This, apparently, is something she is saving—along with many other facets of her life—for a projected book. But in 1929, she became the wife of a man named Pic.

"I was with Mr. Pic two and half years," she says, referring to him in formal language. "I became with child, but he didn't want children. I was three months pregnant when I left him. Mr. Pic voluntarily supported me and then the baby, John E. Pic, until the child was 18."

(John E. Pic is an Air Force sergeant of 14 years service, now stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., where he is a laboratory technician at the 1,000-bed Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital.)

John Pic was born in January 1932, and about 18 months later his mother married Robert Edward Lee Oswald, a salesman for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

"Mr. Oswald was named after Gen. Robert E. Lee," she explains. "It was the same name we gave our first child, Robert Edward Lee Oswald Jr." He was born in April 1934.

(Robert Edward Lee Oswald Jr. works for the Acme Brick Co. in Denton, Tex., where he lives with his family.)

Socialists Gain In Italy's Cabinet

ROME (AP)—Italy's new center-left government takes office today, bringing the Socialists into the Cabinet for the first time in 16 years.

Premier Aldo Moro and his Cabinet were to be sworn in by President Antonio Segni to become Italy's 25th post-Fascist government.

Formation of the four-party coalition ended a political crisis that began in April when the ruling Christian Democrats suffered a setback and the Communists gained a million votes in the election of a new Parliament.

For 13 months before the election, Christian Democratic Premier Amintore Fanfani headed a center-left government supported by the Socialists, but the latter stayed out of the Cabinet. The election results strengthened a Socialist faction that wanted the party to return to its traditional alliance with Italy's big Communist party.

But, Socialist leader Pietro Nenni finally brought the party back into alliance with the Christian Democrats.

Other parties in the coalition are Giuseppe Saragat's Democratic Socialists and the Republicans. They were the other two members of Fanfani's coalition.

The new government is pledged to support the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in foreign affairs and to begin new economic planning.

Moro, a 47-year-old law professor and Christian Democratic leader, is expected to survive his first parliamentary test when he seeks a vote of confidence next week.

Sargus Upset By Avalanche Of Legislation

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
News Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS — Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, D-St. Clairsville, put into words for his senate colleagues Wednesday a sentiment that has been riding the undercurrents of frustration in this unusual and hectic legislative session.

In essence, Sargus believes things are moving too fast.

He made the point in floor debate on the $500 million highway bond issue resolution which the senate adopted 29-3 and sent to the house.

Explaining his intention to vote for the resolution "with reservations," Sargus said he shared the feeling of some of his colleagues and legislative observers here that bills are being railroaded.

Legislation is coming to the floor so rapidly, he said, that members don't have time to analyze what they're voting on.

"We came here believing we would be attending to three or four matters," he said, "but we have been deluged. There has just not been enough time to consider all these matters."

He was joined in that conviction by many other senators.

Employment Dilemma LBJ's Big Problem

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has just butted heads with a dilemma which haunted his predecessors in the White House. They couldn't solve it except in wartime.

It's how to create more jobs for people, or at least enough jobs. Right now about 70 million people are employed and another 3.5 million are out of jobs. And the population keeps on growing every year.

Johnson, meeting with labor and business leaders Wednesday, set as a goal a 5 million increase in jobs. He didn't set a date, which was probably wise since unemployment has a habit of going up as well as down.

In short, Johnson is talking of 75 million jobs. There will be that many in time, unless the economy collapses, but by then there may be so many more people in the labor market that millions may still be unemployed.

No one is reported to have blinked at Johnson's goal, which can be understood as meaning it is now taken for granted, although it has never been a secret, that the population is going up.

Yet, back in the 1940s when Henry A. Wallace, former vice president, talked of a post-war goal of 60 million jobs, there seemed to be some who thought he had a hole in his head.

Shortly after he took office April 12, 1945, with the war coming to an end, which meant reconversion to peacetime and home for jobs, President Truman said: "I am for full employment."

And after the Japanese surrender he asked Congress Sept. 6, 1945 for full employment legislation. But Congress was skittish about putting that kind of label on a law.

It finally passed on—called the Employment Act of 1946—which said the government had a responsibility for the general welfare but stopped a long way short of guaranteeing everyone a job.

When Truman signed it Feb. 20, 1946, he said:

"It is not the government's duty to supplant the efforts of private enterprise to find markets, or of individuals to find jobs.

"The people do, however, expect the government to create and maintain conditions in which the individual businessman and the individual job-seeker have a chance to succeed by their own efforts..."

"That is the objective of the Employment Act of 1946...the Congress has placed on the President the duty of formulating programs designed to accomplish the purpose of the act."

To help him out, Congress created a Council of Economic Advisers. And that's the way it has been ever since. And there hasn't been full employment since.

When President Eisenhower took office Jan. 20, 1953, the employed were 61.5 million and the unemployed 1,398,000. The years passed, the population grew, the number of jobs increased. So did the number of people holding jobs and the number of unemployed.

In the 1960 presidential campaign, John F. Kennedy said: "One and a half million people will come into the labor movement every year in the 1960s and are going to have to find a job. And they come into the labor market at the very same time when automation is revolutionizing employment."

Then when he became President, he counted the score in his first State of the Union message to Congress Jan. 30, 1961. Here is what Eisenhower found when he took office in 1953 and what Kennedy found as he took over in 1961:

Eisenhower: 61.5 million employed, 1,398,000 unemployed. Kennedy: 64,452,000 employed, 5.5 million unemployed.

At the time of Kennedy's death two years and 10 months later, this was the score: About 70 million employed, 3.5 million unemployed. And these are the people and the figures Johnson inherited.

Since 3.5 million people are unemployed now, there is need for 73.5 million jobs, plus another 1.5 million to come.

For Scientific Achievement

One of the early excuses for getting Washington back into a mood of controversy will be Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer's possession of the $50,000 Fermi award, which he received Monday from the hands of President Johnson.

The bestowal had been scheduled for the late President Kennedy, who was believed to welcome a chance of offset the stigma placed on Dr. Oppenheimer when he was found to be a security risk and suspended from Atomic Energy Commission work in 1953-1954.

That was a raging, red-hot controversy while it lasted, replete with charges that intimidated the friends of Dr. Oppenheimer, who was accused of sympathy with Communist organizations and who admitted that he had made foolish associations because of his personal lack of political sophistication.

Sen. Bourke R. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, vice chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee at that time, is still on the scene and still not sold on the Oppenheimer qualifications of citizenship.

But that may be the whole point of the controversy over this highly respected scientist. No one ever said the Fermi award was to be given for citizenship. The award was established in 1954 by Congress with the thought that it should go to persons who had made extraordinary contributions to development of atomic energy. It is probable that many of them may know no more about politics and ideology than a turkey knows about Thanksgiving — or than Robert Oppenheimer knew about Communists.

Enrico Fermi himself was a political innocent — an Italian scientific genius who was helped to come to the United States because this country needed his knowledge of nuclear physics, not his ideas about politics.

Setting the Stage for Prudence

It assuredly will not be President Johnson's inclination to set up invidious comparisons with any of his predecessor's ideas.

But on one idea in particular, the new President should try to set up a new policy and defend it resolutely — the federal spending within the nation's means.

The Kennedy administration had let itself get into the position of defending an unbalanced budget. It was defending some spending, as in foreign aid, and defending some cutbacks, as in some sections of military procurement. But over-all it was proposing to rationalize deficit financing with a tax cut that theoretically would expand the national economy and overcome the deficit at some future time.

No federal administration can have an easy time while defending deficit financing in peacetime. This is the first blunt reality that confronts President Johnson. His first presidential move was to start work on the executive budget for the spending year that begins next July 1.

He must decide whether to commit his administration to an indefinite continuation of deficit financing, or to set a limit on this confidence-nibbling policy by working toward a national budget that will cut the coat to fit the cloth.

Unless Congress cuts spending and armament suppliers cut costs, the United States has no hope of balancing its budget. Congress is in no mood to cut taxes, meanwhile — not while the executive department insists on maintaining a spending rate beyond the national means.

Longevity Plan Good

City workers who stick to their sometimes unpleasant municipal jobs for many years deserve proper recognition.

Therefore, Councilman Fred Koenreich's suggestion that the new City Council consider enactment of an automatic longevity plan for veteran employees is good, if not long overdue.

It is hoped that Council will see fit to enact such an ordinance after the first of the year. The cost is negligible in the light of the proposition's merits.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

I point this out as one of the founders of the club of First Lady Admirers. Following the first reaction of shock and anguish after President Kennedy was killed, the next strong reaction was a surge of admiration for Jacqueline Kennedy, who behaved throughout like the great lady she is.

One of these days when one of those shotgun mikes is pointed at a cluster of football players during a tight game there is going to be a spatter of the language for which football players are noted—and the wires will burn out.

It is an oddity of our era that the Ecumenical Congress is one of the few things about it that will be historically important yet proceedings of this great gathering of churchmen are so difficult to describe that posterity will know more about them than contemporaries.

I am still waiting to see one of those high-style dresses they were describing late last summer—with necklines plunging down to here and expanding laterally all the way out to here. But perhaps it's just as well, because I doubt if I'm ready for style that high.

One of the things I'm waiting to hear explained is the boom in church construction. Never have I seen so many churches built in such a short time, and I am sure it reflects a financial condition of widespread significance.

My common sense is offended by the statement that "we" expose our presidents to danger. The opposite is true. Our presidents expose themselves to danger. — They want their countrymen to feel close to them. John F. Kennedy gave his Secret Service guards fits by mingling with crowds and had made a trip to Texas for the express purpose of being seen by as many Texans as could crowd close to him.

I have found ready agreement with my view in this column that most Americans do not believe in a two-party system of government and would obliterate the other party if they ever had a chance.

So many disrespectful cracks have been made about my new Tyrolean-type hat that I have had to prepare a comeback. I explain there is only one disadvantage to the thing, the same being that women now have a mad impulse to get close to me and I spend all my time brushing loose powder off my blue suit. This keeps the disparagers quiet long enough for me to make a getaway.

I have never had anything on the top of my desk except utilitarian objects. But one weekend last summer I picked up a chunk of obsidian (Volcanic glass) in Rosy Fingered Dawn and brought it to the office as a reminder of home. Since then I have explained hundreds of times where it came from and that it isn't coal, licorice, uranium, a precious stone, or anything really unusual.

Friend of Labor People

By VICTOR RIESEL

The new first lady is an old friend of some of the policy-making, vote-getting labor people, Mrs. Claudia "Lady Bird"

Johnson has done right well by the President on this front as the following untold stories will reveal.

In January 1962, labor's political strategists decided there is no political enemy like that of a woman spurred into action. They called a "WAD" national meeting here — WAD being the Women's Activities Division of labor's Committee on Political Education.

Some 50 women came into town from what the labor people believed to be 24 pivotal states. It was an important session. But no particular effort was made to publicize it.

Mrs. Johnson learned of the gathering, though it was only one of hundreds of conferences held in this capital.

Within a few hours the labor ladies received invitations from the Johnsons to come to tea at their home, The Elms. The WAD women were delighted.

ON THE DAY of the tea they chartered a bus and started for the Johnsons' in a heavy snow. Somewhere near the house, the bus began to skid. Finally it was halted by an icy stretch. Suddenly a large car arrived. It was Mrs. Johnson's!

She had alerted the police and had asked them to let her know if the bus ran into winter troubles. When word came, Mrs. Johnson dispatched her car with a load of gravel and rock salt. This was spread beneath the wheels. The 52 lady activists arrived safely.

When they got to The Elms, they did not feel themselves strangers. There was no "dead air," no awkwardness. Mrs. Johnson had asked Mrs. Arthur Goldberg to help receive them. They were separated into groups and shown every inch of the then vice president's home except the kitchen.

A young man from Texas sang. A young lady did her bit at the piano. Mrs. Goldberg talked of "how it felt to be a labor wife in the Cabinet."

Then, as the ladies decided it was time to go, Mrs. Johnson said: Why not wait a few minutes for the vice president?

LYNDON JOHNSON, like any other mortal male, had had a tough day at the office. But he fascinated them with tales of his foreign trips, of working people abroad, of slums and poverty, of his joy at seeing the American flag on his return.

The women activists finally got into the bus. The driver delayed starting the return trip. He was worried by the condition of the icy, sloping roadway. Noting the delay, Mr. Johnson strode quickly to the vehicle and got inside.

Then, standing in the front part of the bus, the vice president spoke of his youth. He told them of his mother. He said that she had always advised him that if he gave his best, the best would come back to him.

Three weeks later each of the ladies received two or three photos of themselves with "Lady Bird" Johnson, or with the vice president or Mrs. Goldberg. Each name had been carefully checked out. There were no errors in identification.

Some of the Women's Activities Division ladies talked of this the other day. They never forgot her astuteness and graciousness.

MORE POLITICALLY sophisticated labor leaders also have reason to know of her. There was the early morning hour gathering in a New York Hotel Commodore suite the night after the 1960 election.

A group of labor men who had spent considerable time, money and energy in behalf of John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson now were certain they had carried New York State for "the" ticket. The phone rang. Their leader was handed the receiver. Incredulity showed on his face when the caller spoke. It was "Lady Bird". She was phoning long distance to thank them.

Then she put Lyndon Johnson on. Never before had this happened — no first lady or second lady ever had called in this fashion. The union men still talk of it.

And, as recently as June 5, some of them had reason to thank her. Through her intervention, she agreed to be honorary chairman of an Israel Independence celebration. The Iraqi embassy protested. Its charge d'affaires requested her to withdraw. She rebuffed him in a stinging letter.

There have been other moments which have brought her closer to the labor people than the wife of any vice president. Now that she is the first lady, they don't exactly see her as another Mrs. Roosevelt — but they will count on her as a good friend and knowledgeable strategist.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my husband started to tell me how great his father is. After about five beers his eyes got sort of watery and he said, "If my father ever got too sick to work I'd hock everything in this house to take care of him."

I told my husband if he so much as sold one stick of furniture I would take the children and move out. After all, I worked six years before the children came and every dime went into this house. It's just as much my house as his, and I'm not about to let him hock things to help out his dad.

We got into a big argument and I'd like you to tell me if I'm right or wrong. Thank you. —JOSIE

Dear Josie: Why waste time and energy arguing about something that hasn't happened and probably never will?

It would make a lot more sense if your husband helped his dad work out a program whereby he saved a part of his weekly check. This beats fighting about problems which don't exist.

Premature Obituary

Dear Ann: Last week my obituary appeared in the newspaper. Of course I did not die but the person who did die had the same name as mine, and the same middle initial. He was two years older than I am.

I have lived in this city for less than two years. Most of my friends and colleagues know very little about my family.

My wife received several cards of condolence and a few handwritten notes. Eight or 10 people phoned her to say they were sorry.

Naturally, she told those who called I was alive and kicking. But what should she do about the cards and notes? She feels it would be stupid to do anything about them. I say if these people were good enough to express sympathy she should respond by letting them know I am all right. Please advise us.

Dear Norm: The folks who wrote should be notified by telephone — and I hope your wife will do it promptly—before someone who wrote a condolence note bumps into you on the street and has a coronary.

Too Late Smart

Dear Ann: I'm 16 years old but today I feel like 90. It's too late for advice but maybe my experience will prevent some other girl from making the same mistake.

I live in a city where there is a state university. Any high school sophomore who can get a date from a guy at the university is considered pretty special. I was thrilled when a 21-year-old junior asked me out. He was handsome and on the football team besides. My success really went to my head.

I figured since this guy was older than hand holding in the movies and a good night kiss at the door would be kid stuff to him so I decided I'd do anything and everything to keep him interested. Believe me, this was the biggest mistake of my life.

After he got what he wanted I'd dropped me like a hot coal. Now I feel like a cheap tramp. Just tell the girls for me, Ann, that once you become a conquest instead of a challenge the boys lose interest—DUMB ME.

Dear You: I'll agree you were pretty dumb, but your letter indicates you've smartened up considerably. Thanks for writing and I hope your new-found wisdom will be reflected in your future conduct.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

English System

By DAVID LAWRENCE

By a fortuitous circumstance, the United States today has in Lyndon Johnson a president who though chosen under the American electoral system possesses the very kind of legislative experience characteristic of the parliamentary system prevalent in other English-speaking countries.

While the vice-presidential nomination has been given to members of the Senate or House several times in American history, the leader of a party in the Senate has not as frequently been named for the vice presidency.

Yet, by reason of a strategic position in the councils of his party, such a man is closer to the problems of the national government than are any of the governors of states or even individual members of Congress who, though they may become prominent, are not selected by their colleagues to be party leaders.

The trend in recent years, of course, has been toward the selection of a vice-presidential nominee from Congress. Sen. Charles Curtis, majority leader, was vice president under President Hoover. House Speaker John Nance Garner became vice president under Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933. Senate Majority Leader Allen W. Barkley was elected vice president with Harry Truman in 1948.

ALTHOUGH NOT his party's leader, Sen. John F. Kennedy came close to winning the vice-presidential nomination on the ticket with Mr. Stevenson in 1956, but the Democratic convention delegates turned to another senator, the late Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, for the second place, who, too, was not the party's leader.

Few of these men, however, had the popularity or support inside the Congress that Lyndon Johnson enjoyed in his eight years as Senate majority leader. This correspondent, in a dispatch from the Democratic National Convention at Los Angeles on July 11, 1960, wrote:

"The Texas senator (Lyndon Johnson) is the real choice of the delegates here. There's no doubt about it. Every conversation with key men in various delegations confirms that appraisal. The feeling is that Johnson could surely win in November and that Kennedy is likely to be beaten by Nixon. The contrast is between a youthful candidate and an experienced leader."

Mr. Kennedy turned out to be a man of more maturity than former President Truman and other Democratic spokesmen at the time believed him to be, but there was no question about the sentiment of many of the delegates for the Senate majority leader.

The late speaker of the house, Sam Rayburn, who led the convention fight for Sen. Johnson, kept emphasizing Mr. Johnson's legislative experience in his talks with the delegates.

BUT HOW did Sen. Johnson happen to get the vice-presidential nomination? Primarily, Mr. Kennedy recognized the political value if all the Southern states would go Democratic. In a dispatch from Los Angeles on July 20, 1960, this correspondent wrote:

"When word was being passed around the convention hall last Thursday that Sen. Johnson had accepted Sen. Kennedy's offer of the vice-presidential nomination, a close adviser of the Texas senator approached this correspondent and said:

"I know you will be surprised about this, but last night several of us had a talk with Sen. Johnson and discussed very frankly what we were up against. Bear in mind that the labor leaders fought Johnson for the top place on the ticket, and they don't like him."

"Bear in mind that Jack Kennedy will make a campaign on virtually a socialistic platform. He may be less radical if elected, but he will be plenty radical in the campaign. What is that going to do to us in the South during the coming session of Congress and later on?"

"Well, many of us in the Johnson camp felt he just had to get in there and exercise a restraining influence. If elected, Lyndon Johnson will have considerable power inside the Senate, just as he has had as majority leader."

"I tell you his influence will be exerted toward safe and sane policies, and he will be in there pitching. We told him he just had to accept the vice-presidential nomination if offered to him. He had nothing to lose if defeated, because he would remain as majority leader."

IT SO HAPPENS that Lyndon Johnson ran for the Senate on the same day in 1960 that he was voted for as a vice-presidential nominee. This was made possible by Texas law.

Incidentally, under the parliamentary system, the election is always for individual seats, and later on the prime minister is selected by the majority of the members of the national legislature itself from their own ranks.

There sometimes is a slowdown and serious delay when a vice president has succeeded to the presidency. But the same weakness occurs when changing from one party to the other in national elections, as new Cabinet members unfamiliar with legislative problems are selected.

On that very point on Nov. 28, 1960—after the close election of that year—a dispatch by this writer said:

"What America lacks today is a system that provides for continuity in government, with a trained personnel that has become familiar with the problems of government. To choose a president by popular vote sounds, theoretically, desirable, but the indirect system, whereby the people choose their members of Congress carefully and they in turn pick the president, would in the end, provide more stability to the whole governmental process."

The prairie dog is a heavy-bodied, short-tailed ground squirrel of the western United States named for its barking voice. Some prairie dog species live in large colonies or towns. Their burrows are well-engineered, having raised funnel-shaped entrances which keep out water.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Health Questions, Answers

Q—I am a diabetic and I take tolbutamide. Would diabetes cause me to have trouble concentrating or expressing myself?

A—The symptoms you complain of are characteristic of the hardening of the arteries of the brain that accompanies advancing age.

Diabetes, however, may be an indirect cause as it favors the early development of arteriosclerosis throughout the body. This is one more reason for keeping your diabetes under control at all times.

Q—If I keep my diabetes controlled, will I develop cataracts?

A—Both cataracts and retinal disease may be caused by diabetes. Keeping the disease under control helps to prevent these and other complications.

Q—I have been a diabetic for 12 years. When I go out and my date wants to take me some place to eat afterward, should I tell him I am a diabetic or should I just tell him I'm not hungry?

A—How you respond to an invitation to have a snack would depend on how serious you are about your escort. If he means nothing to you, make an excuse and get home early. If you think there is a possibility of marriage, be frank about your condition.

Your friend may lose interest but, if so, the less deeply involved you get with him and the sooner you are available to date someone else the better. Lots of diabetics get married.

When a woman with diabetes becomes pregnant her diabetes must be watched closely, because during pregnancy her need for drugs to control the diabetes may increase.

There is no reason why, with good care, she should not produce a healthy baby. There is of course, the possibility that the baby will inherit a tendency to develop diabetes.

Q—My doctor says I have low renal threshold for sugar. Does this mean that I will become a diabetic?

A—You are mildly diabetic. You probably can control this with diet alone but you should have a frequent check-up of your urine and your blood for sugar.

Q—Can a diabetic safely take any alcoholic beverages? I have been told there is no sugar in Rhine wine.

A—Before the discovery of insulin, alcohol was used by many diabetics as a quick source of energy in place of the sugar they could not utilize. Alcohol was used in those days to treat diabetic acidosis.

We now have better means of treatment. It is true that Rhine wine, dry claret, hock, Moselle, sauterne, dry vermouth and other dry wines contain little or no sugar.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR FOLKS: We have had so many complaints from readers who have foam rubber pillows who need laundering, that some sweet gentleman who KNOWS (and is with one of the biggest foam manufacturers in America) writes the following for us:

DEAR HELOISE: Foam rubber pillows should never be hung in the sunlight because the ultraviolet rays in sunlight are enemies of foam rubber and cause it to crumble.

Actually, foam rubber itself has no odor and this problem is very seldom encountered. However, of course, it can pick up odors from hair oils, babies, etc. When this happens the best thing to do is to wash the pillow by hand in lukewarm water, with a mild soap. Excess water should be squeezed out. Then let the pillow or other article dry in a cool place, OUT OF DIRECT SUNLIGHT. Foam rubber NEVER should be dried in an automatic dryer.

Some people may not have genuine foam rubber, but instead have pillows of urethane foam, a synthetic plastic substitute. This product sometimes has an unpleasant, chemical-like odor. In any case, sunlight is also damaging to urethane, making it age prematurely and turn a rather ugly yellow.

JOHN D. DOHERTY, JR.

And, Mr. Doherty, we all thank you dearly.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Just a thought to pass along to our other coffee pals who might be interested in enclosing an Heloise dishrag with their Christmas cards. He postage will cost no more as this "Heloise" weighs NOTHING!

I enclosed this poem with each Heloise net dishrag: Enclosed is a dishrag named Heloise.

Take her and love her; she works with ease. T'won't sour nor smell, and boy is it swell, And when you use her, think of ME . . . She'll never get tattered and torn. Scrub all pots and pans, whatever you can. Remember me when you use Heloise.

EVELYN RITCHIE.

DEAR GALS: Heloise dishrags can be made for practically nothing and can be tucked in along with any gift. Buy nylon net (72 inches wide) at your dime or department store. Cut it into 18 inch squares. Won't ravel or tear so use plain scissors. One yard of net will make eight dish cloths. Each gift will cost you less than five cents. And they are wonderful. It's something that one will use every day and remember you by. Net comes in a multitude of colors. These Heloise dishrags may be stitched along the edges with yarn, crocheted, etc. Real cute when stitched with mercerized colored thread on your sewing machine. But just to cut them up with a pair of scissors . . . suffices.

HELOISE.

P.S.: I'm so glad to find Heloise that weighs "nothing"! All I want is to lose 10 pounds!

DEAR HELOISE: We have some answers to the "tile" question when people write you that black "goo" comes up between the tiles.

The tile which has been laid, was probably placed in the adhesive too quickly after the adhesive was spread. The air dries this material and since the tile covered the adhesive immediately, the adhesive has remained a little moist, because of lack of air. This is fairly common, however and a dehumidifier in the room will help alleviate the condition.

In the interim, the "black cement" can be removed from the tile face with steel wool, moistened with water.

Leetonia Council OKs New Fire Truck Tank

LEETONIA — Fire Chief Elton Holt was granted permission by Village Council to purchase a new tank for the fire truck from the Suthen Fire Co. of Columbus at a regular meeting Wednesday in Mayor Ralph Kennedy's office.

Price of the tank will be $450. Safety valves will be purchased at a cost of $65, making the total cost $515.

Robert Carey of Chestnut St. was present to inquire when Council would continue work on water drainage on the street. He complained that water runs into his yard and washes away the grass.

Train Blocks Path Of Fire Truck

For five long minutes, Salem firemen "fiddled" while a car burned Wednesday night.

The fire truck was blocked for that long about 9:45 p. m. by a train on the Pennsylvania tracks crossing Mill St. as a car owned by veterinarian T. Floyd Stanley of 119 W. 8th St. blazed away at the corner of Newgarden St. and Jones Dr.

By the time the track cleared, the fire, which damaged the wiring, hood and windshield of the car, was out.

Seeing the blaze leaping from the hood, Dr. Stanley jumped out and pulled his two-year-old son, Timmy, from the car.

Stanley and a passing friend and truck driver extinguished the flames with snow and a fire extinguisher from the truck.

About a month ago, a disabled train blocked Mill St. and other crossings for six hours, tying up traffic, but fortunately no fires broke out in that period or in those directions.

Gov. Rhodes Names New Patrol Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Capt. Anson B. Cook, 53, Wilmington, will succeed Col. Scott B. Radcliffe as superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol next Jan. 1.

Gov. James A. Rhodes announced the change today at a Statehouse ceremony for presentation of a plaque in honor of Radcliffe's 30 years with the patrol.

Radcliffe said he would become a consultant and field representative of the Highway Safety Foundation, Mansfield, a non-profit organization producing traffic safety films.

Cook, a native of Columbus, was a football letterman at Wittenberg College, Springfield, in 1932. He joined the patrol in 1935, beginning his duties at the Portsmouth post.

He served successive tours at posts in Middletown, Warren, Massillon, Medina, Lorain, Chillicothe, Wilmington, Wooster and Findlay and now is stationed at General Headquarters in Columbus.

Cook and his wife, the former Violet McArdle, a native of Massillon, two daughters, Mrs. James Wilkerson, Findlay, and Catherine, a student at Wittenberg.

Other members attending were Mrs. Ray Davies of Lisbon; Frank Fluno, East Liverpool; Bruce Gordon, Salem; Kenneth Leishman, Salineville; Gern Berresford, East Palestine, and Robert Beresford of Wellsville.

The committee set Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. for the next meeting at the same location.

Salem Woman Speaks At Education Confab

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Janet Shears, of 976 S. Lincoln Ave., Salem, a primary teacher in Ohio, addressed a national education meeting Wednesday on some of the rewards of teaching.

Mrs. Shears, who teaches in the Orchard Hills School in Leetonia, Ohio, appeared at a joint meeting of the National Education Association and the Magazine Publishers Association at the Hilton Hotel.

She, along with 13 other teachers, was selected by state affiliates of the NEA to attend the sessions as representatives of modern education practices.

All 14 spoke briefly on why they chose teaching as a career.

Oswald

"I became with child in early '39," Mrs. Oswald says. "I was in my seventh month when Mr. Oswald died of coronary thrombosis."

The infant born Oct. 18, 1939, in New Orleans was named Lee Harvey Oswald.

"I was left penniless, with three boys," she says. (However, there was $3,500 in insurance).

With the insurance money and some cash from the sale of her home, she was able to hold out, staying home to care for her kids. But then times turned hard for her, and when the war started she went to work. John Pfc and Robert Oswald were placed in a Lutheran home for children where she now says they received "a wonderful religious education."

Lee, the baby, stayed with her and was cared for by her sister and whoever else she could get to babysit. When Lee reached the age of 3, he, too, went into the home, remaining there until he was 5.

"That was when I married Mr. Edward K. Eckdahl, who made $10,000 a year and had an expense account," she said. "We lived in Fort Worth. Lee was with me. After a few months I planned to file suit for divorce but delayed it because I did not want to take Lee out of school. While I was waiting, Mr. Eckdahl got a divorce from me."

She shook her head in sad wonder. "I'd been married three times and altogether had husbands for only 8 years," she says.

"Lee was such a fine, high class boy," she says. "He didn't waste time with comic books and trashy things. On Sundays, I'd take him to church and then have lunch somewhere and go to the zoo, he knew the names of every animal there, and to the planetarium, he just knew everything about stars, and to the museums."

This idyllic picture of mother-son relationship jars with less romantic official documents which said that 13-year-old Lee had schizophrenic tendencies and was potentially dangerous.

Nor does it agree with the recollection of John Carro, who was Lee's probation officer from April 1953 to January 1954. Carro said Mrs. Oswald refused to consider her son anything more than a truant, balked at aid from welfare agencies, ignored a court order that Lee receive psychiatric treatment.

What does she say to this now?

She doesn't have a direct comment. The answer is contained in her conviction that as a mother she, and only she, could know her son.

"I have to face this alone," she says, "but I will do it. I have always faced life. I have been exploited since childhood. But there has been no turning away. I have faith. I do not question the will of God."

And yet there is something about her demeanor that suggests she has been cast in a role that despite its tragic overtones and its tragic cost has had an importance for her.

Senate

hood that the $500 million highway bond issue will be stopped in the House on its way to the ballot for a statewide vote May 5.

Those who opposed it in Wednesday's floor vote were Sens. Frank W. King, D-Lucas, minority leader; Frazier Reams Jr., D-Lucas, and Ed Witmer, D-Stark. Sen. John J. Corrigan, D-Cuyahoga, was absent.

The remaining nine Democrats in the Senate joined Republicans in voting for the proposal, which is backed by the administration.

King asserted that, if voters okay the proposal and bonds are issued, the state debt will reach more than $1.1 billion.

It is proposed that the penny-a-gallon gasoline tax imposed a decade ago be continued and income from the axle-mile tax on big trucks be used to pay off the bonds, money from which would be used to speed up highway construction.

Action on an ADCU measure came swiftly after months of discussion.

The House - approved bill, which now comes under scrutiny of a Senate committee, would — Allow Ohio to participate in the program until June 30, 1965. — Have each county pay half the non-federal share of the cost, provided that this, combined with cost of aid for the disabled, does not exceed amounts distributed to the county on the basis of assessed valuation from the .65-mill levy on public utilities property.

Liquor Permits Of Grocer, Lodge Are Suspended

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control has taken action in three county cases regarding violations of state liquor laws.

John Rottenborn of 119 Jennings Ave., operator of the Jennings Corner Grocery, received two 14-day suspensions, to be assessed concurrently beginning at noon Jan. 2, 1964, and ending at noon, Jan. 16, for sale of intoxicating liquor in and upon the permit premises to a minor on June 6.

He previously had been convicted in Northwest County Court here last June 17.

Two 35-day suspensions, to be served concurrently from Jan. 2 to Feb. 6, were assessed to the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Leetonia for sale of intoxicating liquor in and upon the permit premises to a person not then and there a member of the organization Aug. 23 and for possession of devices in and upon the permit premises which may be used for gaming or wagering on the same day.

Fulmer Bar, Inc., owner of the Shamrock Grill of 115 E. 6th St., East Liverpool, received two seven-day suspensions to be served concurrently beginning at noon Jan. 2 and ending at noon Jan. 9, for sale of intoxicating liquor in and upon the permit premises to a minor July 7.

The state department's actions followed hearings in all cases at Columbus last month.

2 Putting Up Lisbon Decorations Injured

LISBON — Two Junior Chamber of Commerce members, putting up the Christmas decorations in streets of Lisbon, were injured Wednesday at 10:30 p.m. when a fork-lift they were using, stopped suddenly and caused them to fall to the pavement. It was estimated they dropped about 12 feet in the middle of the square.

Dean Rose fell on his shoulder and head and was taken to the Salem City Hospital after being checked to two local physicians. His condition is described as fairly good.

Keith Cox of 238 W. High St. received a broken right foot and it was placed in a cast. He is expected to be laid up for about four weeks.

Salem Man Begins Reformatory Term

LISBON — Ryan Voogla, 25, of 1215 E. 3rd St., Salem, was taken to the Mansfield Reformatory today by Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan and Deputy Howard Gray, to begin serving a 1-20 year sentence for forgery.

Voogla had received a five-year probation July 18 after he pleaded guilty to signing the name of Evald Tolia to obtain merchandise at a store in Salem. He was cited and sentenced by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp when he failed to make payments as ordered by the court.

VanFossan and Gray will then go to Lima State Hospital to return Dennis Leon Gillispie of RD 2, New Cumberland, who pleaded guilty to statutory rape and was sent to Lima for examination and report before receiving sentence from the court.

'False Arrest' Suit Trial Is Delayed

LISBON — The $75,000 "false arrest" lawsuit in common pleas court was suspended after plaintiff, Milton Schulman, University Heights, was on the stand late Wednesday afternoon.

The trial will resume Monday at 9 a.m. before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard. The jury has heard testimony of the three defendants, George Bodirnea Jr., Salem; state patrolman Thomas Davis of Ravenna, and Felix Butch, former justice of the peace, of Lisbon. Mrs. Schulman also testified before the court was recessed.

Bodirnea allegedly saw the plaintiff almost cause a wreck on Rt. 45 at the intersection of Pigeon Rd., on Sept. 5, 1954, and he went immediately to the state patrol barracks, a short distance south, and reported the incident.

The officer on duty radioed patrol cars to stop the Cleveland car and Ptl. Davis stopped Schulman near Lisbon and waited for Bodirnea to file charges in Butch's court.

Schulman would not consent to a hearing before Butch, who bound the case over to grand jury, which then indicted Schulman on three counts — reckless operation, driving left of center and failure to observe markings.

A petit jury acquitted Schulman Nov. 10, 1954, and he filed the civil suit 11 months later, alleging false arrests and malicious prosecution.

The burial service was held between 8:45 and 9 p.m., long after the cemetery had closed for the night and visitors to the President's grave had departed.

Bishop Philip Hannan, auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Washington, presided. He had delivered a tribute to the President at Kennedy's funeral service Nov. 25.

Announcement of the reinterment was made by Pierre Salinger, who said he acted as a representative of the Kennedy family rather than as White House press secretary.

Salinger said that some three acres of the cemetery—which is reserved for American servicemen, their wives and their children—had been "turned over to the Kennedy family."

Lady Dottie

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Cats, like women, rarely reveal their age. They wouldn't tell the truth even if you put their paw on the Bible.
So it is I don't know for certain how old Lady Dottie is. She was in an advanced stage of kittenhood when she adopted our family some years back, and began to rule us with her iron whims.
I would guess she is now in the equivalent of early middle age. Certainly she acts more like a spinster every day.
She has developed a bad case of xenophobia, or fear of strangers. Unlike a spinster, she doesn't look under her bed for strange men before retiring. She merely runs and hides under the sofa when a strange man enters the apartment, and usually stays there until he leaves.
Formerly she liked to escort me into the hall when I went to work, and stand there gravely waiting until the elevator had whisked me down. Looking at her I sometimes had the eerie feeling she was a kind of fur-covered, four-footed wife, silently telling me, "Now work hard all day like a nice little husband earn me a good living, and be sure to get home early."
Lately, however, Lady Dottie has declined to go into the hall. She merely follows me to the door, gives a farewell rub against my legs and walks away.
Apparently she has lost nearly all curiosity about the outside world. Now and then she is stirred to a tail-lashing jungle excitement when an impertinent sparrow perches on our windowsill. But for the most part she seems content to be an indoor cat, taking our apartment as her placid place of empire.

She used to reach out and bat or bite our daughter, Tracy Ann, or the two children down the hall if they teased her or tried to fondle her too much. Now she puts up with their petting with a regal air of resignation.
Most cat lovers like to brag about their pets' tricks. The only trick Lady Dottie ever learned was, when accidentally shut into the bathroom, to leap up on the washstand and turn the doorknob with both paws, sometimes opening it.
When we try to get her to do this trick for friends, however, she merely stands behind the door and plaintively meows for release. Cats, like children, never show off when you want them to.
My wife, Frances, sometimes wears of preparing Lady Dottie's meals.
"I must have cut up and warmed enough beef kidney and frozen codfish for that cat to fill a freight car," she says.
But when I remark that cats are more trouble than husbands Frances replies: "Yes, in some ways. But on the other hand, they are more intelligent conversationalists. When I talk to Lady Dottie, I at least know she hears me. That's more than I can say for some husbands."

Santa and the Haunted House

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The Storyteller began a story for Jeremy, Sissy and Miss Jo. He told about a wicked Bugaboo who was sent by the Queen Fairy to live in Santa Land.

(Chapter Three)
NOG IN SANTA LAND
"What did Nog do?" cried Sissy, rising to her knees. "What did he do?" echoed Miss Jo, pulling on the Storyteller's boot. "Let him tell," said Jeremy, yanking his sisters down. The Storyteller sighed. "What didn't he do!" he said, shaking his head.

"Tell us! Tell us!"
"Well, for one thing, Nog would sneak into the workshops after the other elves had finished their work. He would unwrap all the toys that had been made that day. Then, while everyone else was sleeping, Nog would have himself the biggest time, pulling off dolls' arms, tearing loose wires on electric trains, hiding pieces of jigsaw puzzles and things like that."

"Why did he do it?" gasped Miss Jo.
"He was just plain mean," said the Storyteller. "He fixed it so that when little children came down Christmas morning and picked up their toys—the toys were broken before they even started to play with them."
"I got a wind-up truck once," said Jeremy suddenly. "The spring was broken and it never ran once."

This was the end for Santa.

"Likely Nog did it," said the Storyteller, nodding.

"But you said Nog wasn't in Santa Land any more," protested Sissy.

"He's not," said the Storyteller. "That's what I'm about to tell you." He pulled a pipe from his pocket, put it in his mouth without lighting it and went on with his story.

After that first Christmas, Santa got a whole train load of letters complaining about all the broken toys he'd left for children all over the world.

SANTA WAS pretty upset. He called Nog in to see him and he said, "Are you responsible for all this trouble?"

"Maybe yes, maybe no," said Nog without a bit of shame.

"I don't understand," said Santa. "Why do you hate children?"

"I hate everybody," said Nog and his purple face got even more purple just thinking about how much he hated everybody. "But why?" asked Santa.

"Because everybody hates me," said Nog.
"I don't hate you," said Santa.
"Oh," said Nog. "It's your business to love people. But I like to hate and I like for everyone to hate me."

SANTA JUST COULDN'T believe Nog really meant this so he said, "I'm giving you another chance to work in Santa Land."

"Pshaw!" said Nog. "If I wanted to I could RUN Santa Land. I could get rid of you and then I'd run this place my own way. Wouldn't that be something?"

This sounded so silly that Santa paid no attention. He said, "I'm putting you to work in the stables. I'm sure you will like the reindeer because animals can't hate."

Well, Nog went down to the stables and it appeared he was doing all right, at least as far as Santa could see. But that Christmas eve when the deer were hitched to the sleigh they couldn't fly.

Nog had filled their stomachs full of ball bearings from the skate shop and the poor reindeer could hardly waddle out of the stable much less take off into the sky.

SANTA HAD TO call on every sprite, ghost, goblin and elf in Fairyland to help deliver toys that night. When the job was finally done and he got back to Santa Land, all the shop had burned down. Nog had dropped a lighted candle on a Christmas tree and set the whole place ablaze.

This was the end for Santa. He sent for the Fairy Queen and he said, "You were right. I can't keep Nog in Santa Land."

"Oh, dear," sighed the Queen. "What will we do with him now?"

"Yeah," said Nog, smirking. "What will you do with me now?"

NON-FICTION

UNESCO ASSESSMENT AND PROMISE by George N. Shuster. There is much misunderstanding and misconception of the activities of this country. This book has the purpose of clarifying and outlining the nature and purpose of the agency, for its tasks are both urgent and ambitious - and must be accomplished with a small budget.

THE RESPONSIBLE SELF by H. Richard Niebuhr. Essays on the responsibilities of the Christian in today's world where so much social consciousness thrives.

A HISTORY OF AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY by Alexander DeConde. This history covers this subject from the time that European countries began colonizing America right on through to 1962.

OPERATION AMERICA by Jules Dubois. A veteran Latin-American correspondent for the Chicago Tribune writes of Communist infiltration in South America, and of the chances for success, as in Cuba.

THE ROAD TO HUDDERSFIELD: A JOURNEY TO FIVE CONTINENTS by James Morris. The entire story of the World Bank from its beginning in 1944 to the present.

SUPPRESSED BOOKS by Alec Craig. "The subject of this book is the conception of literary obscenity as found in law and practice and its cultural and social effects. My primary concern is the restraint which the conception exercises on serious literature and consequently on intellectual freedom and artistic creation." The foregoing quotation from the author's preface needs only to be supplemented by a note that much of the material is about England, quite a bit about America, and that it is a subject deserving every thoughtful person's perusal.

WARRIOR'S WEAPONS by Walter Buehr. A clearly written and excellently illustrated history of weapons from pre-historic times up to the invention of gunpowder.

IS THERE LIFE ON OTHER WORLDS? by Paul Anderson. Mr. Anderson has sifted through much scientific literature in order to make educated speculation concerning the possibilities of life on other planets. As always, he writes interestingly, and this subject has never been of as much the concern of all of us as now.

BASIC ELECTRICITY by Rufus P. Turner. This is an enlarged and up-dated edition of a standard text which many students will find useful.

SYSTEMATIC DICTIONARY OF MAMMALS OF THE WORLD by Maurice Burton. Essential information about nearly all types of animals to be found in any quantity in the world today, with drawings in pen and ink of each species. This is not nearly so beautiful as the "Living Mammals of the World" which costs twice as much, but perhaps this one will not disappear mysteriously from the library shelves.

THE FIRST NINE MONTHS OF LIFE by Geraldine Lux Flanagan. Embryology for the lay reader, so to speak, this is a carefully prepared book in clear concise prose and effective and accurate photographs of the pre-natal growth of the human being. Solely because such books are disappearance-prone, this must be asked for at the circulation desk.

THE CONSUMERS UNION REPORT ON SMOKING AND THE PUBLIC GOOD. A review of the medical evidence, a look at the industry's record and last but not least, a suggested seven-point program of what to do about the problem.

MODERN PSYCHIATRY by Francis J. Braceland and Michael Stock. This worthwhile book traces the development of the science of psychiatry, with particular stress on the work of Freud. Next it describes various psychiatric illnesses, explains the methods of treating them in lay language. Next the authors discuss the resistance that has developed in people toward this form of treatment, especially as it applies to any possible conflict with their religious beliefs.

PEGLER: ANGRY MAN OF THE PRESS by Oliver Pilat. The author has been a reporter for many years and has known his subject for much of his writing life. He has also done a good deal of research and tells of Pegler's youth and young manhood, gives some choice anecdotes from World War I times, and later also. Readable and interest-holding to anyone who has ever had his blood-pressure raised by reading a Pegler column.

THE VOYAGE OF THE NINA II by Robert F. Marx. A man who served as a crew member when the replica of Columbus' ship re-traced his historic journey tells of the trip in detail.

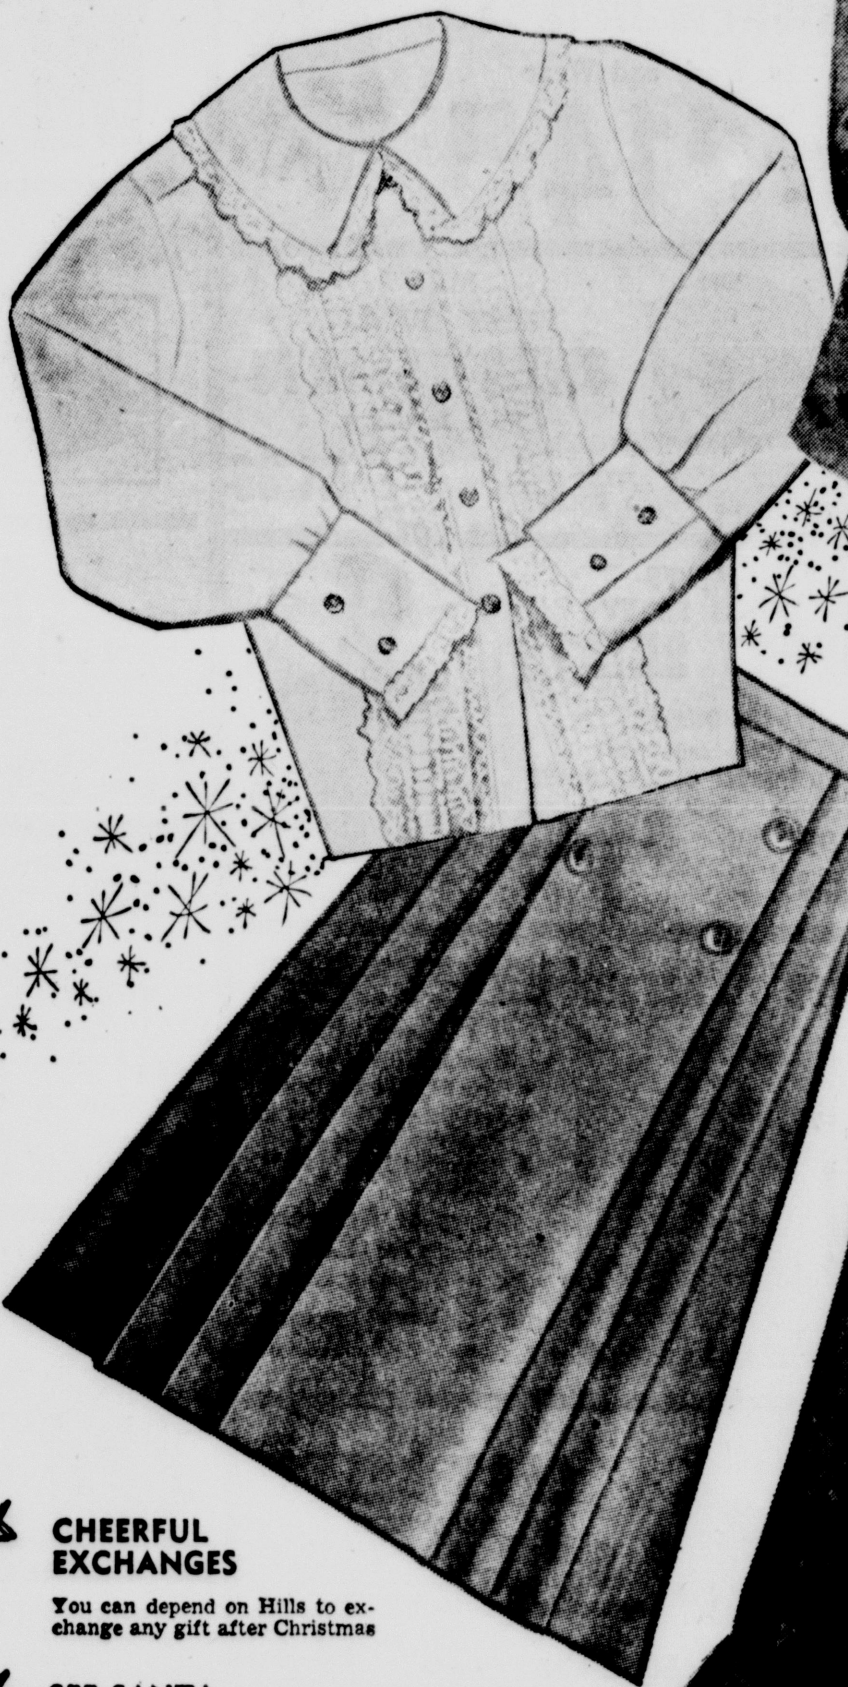

THE COMPANION GUIDE TO THE GREEK ISLANDS and TO THE SOUTH OF FRANCE. These two examples of a new series of travel books are more like a personally-conducted tour than the usual guide - book. There is nothing about what hotel gives the best rates, nor even anything about hotels, but there is much of the history and the people of the area as they are described by a sympathetic observer.

WHERE THE BONG TREE GROWS by James Ramsey Ullman. A very personal account of a long journey the author took in the Pacific where the life is changing as fast today as it is in many other parts of the world.

The Fading Stars: (2)

You Can't Look Up Any More

STARS OF TELEVISION: The current-day brand of stars is typified by such personalities as Lawrence Welk, Johnny Carson and Sid Caesar.

(Second of Three Dispatches.)

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK—(NEA) — Some show business figures believe that the secret of the declining brilliance of stars lies in psychology.

They reason that in the entertainment world of today television is king. And television has yet to create—and perhaps cannot create—a major, lasting star of the first magnitude.

ONE POSSIBLE REASON for this is the psychological approach. You, the audience, sitting at home are bigger than the screen on which you watch television performers. When you used to worship movie actors, you watched them on a screen which dominated you.

You could look up to those movie idols as beings larger than life, a kind of breed of gods. But you don't have that feeling toward the little people who come into the box in the living room.

Loretta Young noticed the difference in reaction. In her golden movie days, the fans would address her as "Miss Young." But, when she swirled into the television scene, she would be hailed with a friendly, "Hi Loretta," by every truck driver or waiter who caught sight of her.

The feeling among show business brains is that medium can create a lasting star when the audience feels they are the equal of the performer.

A TELEVISION STAR — an actor or performer who has his own series—is hot as long as the show is hot. Quick now — who were the stars of Mr. Peepers, Annie Oakley, Our Miss Brooks, Dragnet, Peter Gunn?

There was a time when Wally Cox, Gail Davis, Eve Arden, Jack Webb and Craig Stevens were important stars. Now, with their series just a flock of mixed memories, they find that headwaiters no longer bow quite so low.

These temporary television stars are what Farley Granger calls "domesticated." They look all right on the home screen.

But they fade from your memory very quickly.

Think of today's greatest stars. You'll probably have a list including such names as Judy Garland, Danny Kaye, Harry Belafonte, Lucille Ball, Phil Silvers.

NOT ONE OF THESE was created by television. The closest is Miss Ball, who was a movie star before television came along and made her an even bigger star.

Television has created such performers as Jack Paar, John ny Carson, Steve Allen, Sid Caesar, George Gobel, Mitch Miller, Lawrence Welk — hardly a group which threatens to shake the heavens.

Today's movies have changed in star-making capability. Because of the competition from television, they must be better than before to show profit. They must have a solid story; if it's an epic, so much the better. It seems to matter little who is in it.

Stars in movies are secondary to the film itself. In such a climate, it is understandable that movie moguls are not spending too much money on star-building programs any more.

NEXT: Are stars extinct?

Ohio College Cage Units Whip 6 Out-of-State Teams

Dayton, Cincinnati, Mount Union Triumph

By The Associated Press

Out-of-state teams found the going a bit rough on the Ohio college basketball front Wednesday night. Half a dozen foreign foes tackled Buckeye cagers and came out on the short end.

The University of California at Davis wound up a disastrous three-game Ohio series by losing to Dayton 74-48. The Californians opened their season last Saturday by losing to Ohio State and received similar treatment Monday night in Toledo.

Henry Finkel, Dayton's 6-foot-11 sophomore, scored 22 points and nabbed 15 rebounds to lead the Flyers to their second victory of the campaign without a loss.

In other games involving out-of-state opponents, Xavier's Musketeers showed a strong defense in taking the measure of Tennessee, 69-57; Steubenville trounced St. Francis (Pa.) 90-69. Bowling Green opened its season with a 98-56 shellacking of Hillsdale (Mich.), Ohio University defeated Morehead (Ky.) 105-84, and Defiance toppled Spring Arbor (Mich.) 112-88.

Elsewhere, the Redskins of Miami battled Cincinnati's third-ranked Bearcats down to the wire before falling 60-56. Charlie Dinkins and Charley Coles kept Miami in the game with timely second-half shooting. Coles ended up with 20 points but Ron Bonham of Cincinnati had 26 to lead all scorers.

Three games were played in the Ohio Conference.

Capital took an early lead and went on to rout Baldwin-Wallace 93-76. John Beach led the way with 22 points. Roland Gordon paced the losers with 24.

John Dickerson scored 16 points to lead Mount Union to its first OC victory, a 63-54 decision over Denison, and Wooster battled a stubborn Heidelberg team all the way before winning 73-67.

Undefeated Toledo won its third straight by overwhelming Ohio Wesleyan 82-54 in a non-conference game. Larry Jones had 25 for the Rockets. Ohio Wesleyan, opening its season, received a 14-point effort from Barry Clemens.

Wilberforce came from behind in the last five minutes to hand Findlay its second loss of the season, 77-71. Wilberforce is now 2-0 and the Oilers are 0-2.

Cedarville traveled to Rio Grande and squeaked by the home team, 72-71, and Case Tech romped over Walsh College of Canton 88-56.

BOWLING

By RAY BLUTH

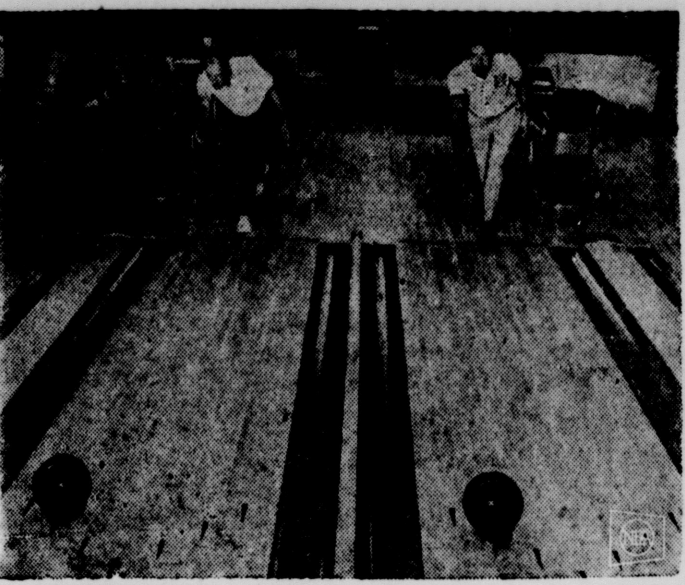

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It is doubtful if any bowler studies lanes as carefully as I do. I keep a record on every lane I roll so I can come back to it a year or two later, and if it hasn't been changed, I know exactly how to play it.

When the lane is hooking it results in the ball being continually high on the head pin. To compensate for this type of lane, you don't try to speed up the ball. This is liable to affect your natural swing and make you lose control.

Instead, you adjust your starting position. My usual starting position is with my left foot square on the center dot in the approach area, with the second arrow from the right as the target. If the ball hits high on the head pin from this position, I move to the left and change my target arrow on the lane.

I usually use the 2 to 1 ratio in this shift. That means that when I move my feet two boards to the left, I move my

This allows your ball to travel farther to the right and compensates for the hook.

Non-hooking lanes should receive just the opposite treatment. Many bowlers have trou-

Wichita, Providence, Louisville Are Upset

Indiana Knocks Off Notre Dame; Arsdale Twins Share 74 Points

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fifth-ranked Wichita, NIT champion Providence and powerful Louisville had trouble finding the basket, but it was Notre Dame that was seeing double.

Wichita, Providence and Louisville were victims of shocking upsets Wednesday night while Notre Dame ran into a pair of twin terrors—Tom and Dick Van Arsdale of Indiana, who combined for 74 points in a 108-102 victory over the Irish.

Wichita became the first member of the top ten to lose a game as two foul shots by Steve Tradenick clinched a 75-74 victory for unheralded Texas Western. Providence bowed to Assumption, Mass., 83-80 and Louisville was joined 78-65 by Eastern Kentucky.

Two other top ten teams saw action — second-ranked NYU and third-ranked Cincinnati — and both had difficulty. Barry Kramer and Happy Hairston led the Violets from behind for a 82-65 victory over Cornell and the Bearcats stalled in the closing minutes to hold off Miami, Ohio, 60-56.

In other top games, sophomore Steve Renko, a football quarterback, threw in 10 key points as Kansas whipped Arkansas 73-60. Stan Luechtefeld dropped in two foul shots to clinch St. Louis' 81-78 decision over Illinois. Purdue's Mel Garland hit for 27 points in an 86-80 victory over Detroit and Virginia Tech handed Mississippi State its first defeat at home in three years, 93-77, with Howard Pardue scoring 32 points.

Indiana had difficulty with Notre Dame throughout but finally pulled after 6-foot-8 Larry Jesewitz fouled out. Jon McGlockin's basket put the Hoosiers ahead 86-85 and the Van Arsdale twins took it from there. Dick collected 42 points, Tom 32 as they hit on 29 of 53 shots.

NYU had difficulty getting its fast-break patterns working smoothly and trailed Cornell by as many as seven points before Kramer and Hairston triggered the Violets' second half comeback. Kramer scored 23 points, Hairston 22.

Cincinnati not only had difficulty, but its hands full. With 1:25 left, baskets by Charlie Coles moved Miami within 57-53 and Coach Ed Jucker sent the Bearcats into a freeze that held off the Redskins. Ron Bonham topped Cincinnati with 26 points.

Top scoring honors for the night went to a loser, Manny Newsome of Western Michigan. Newsome scored 45 points on 17 field goals and all 11 of his foul shots, but a tip-in by Marcus Sanders with 20 seconds left gave Michigan State a 101-100 victory.

Elsewhere, Dan Wolters led the way with 16 points as California defeated St. Mary's, Calif., 65-50, sophomore Richie Moore took scoring honors for Villanova with 25 points in a 72-59 victory over Princeton, sophomore Henry Finkel scored 22 in Dayton's 74-48 wallowing of California at Davis and Ernie Thompson and Levern Tart each collected 25 for Bradley in a 101-70 thumping of Idaho State.

In a game against Wyoming, Pete Gotay of Montana kicked a 64-yard punt.

Vikings Sign Beheard, 8 Other Draft Choices

By The Associated Press

Minnesota's Vikings never got out of the trenches the last time, but they're winning this year's checkbook war for the nation's top college football talent.

The vengeful Vikings, who had their top two 1962 draft picks intercepted by the American Football League, have turned the tables this time while pulling the National Football League out front in the early roundup of the country's outstanding players.

The Vikings signed their seventh and eighth selections Wednesday — Arkansas tackle Wes Bryant and fullback Bill McWatters of North Texas State. The Vikings previously had grabbed their Nos. 1 and 2 picks—tackle Carl Eller of Minnesota and Southern California end Hal Bedsole.

The Vikings' signings account for one-third of the 12 draft selections signed by the NFL.

They outbid Detroit of the NFL for their chief choice, quarterback Pete Beheard of Southern California, making it

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio deer hunters face the prospect of finding a better than average size deer herd when they go into the field.

That's the report from the Ohio Division of Wildlife which bases its forecast on the size of deer accidentally killed. The division says the accidental deer kill is the highest since the mid-1950s and is widely distributed, an indication that the deer population is good and well spread.

In Urbana, they're talking about a raccoon that figuratively came home to roost. The animal, kept as a pet by Dorothy Nolan, caused annoyance to neighbors last summer, according to the Champaign County game protector. The

Hutchinson Makes Grade As Flanker

CLEVELAND (AP) — Tom Hutchinson, Cleveland Browns flanker who has played in the shadow of Gary Collins most of this season, is moving into the limelight.

How much the rookie has progressed was best indicated last Friday when Collins came down with the flu. Cleveland coaches and players were confident Hutchinson could take over.

Collins was able to play during the victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, but Hutchinson spelled him often.

The former Kentucky star caught only two passes but both were important. He was on the receiving end of a 49-yard pass play in the second quarter that took the ball to the St. Louis 8-yard line. Jim Brown needed only three tries from there for the second Cleveland touchdown.

Hutchinson made a diving catch of a 14-yard pass from Frank Ryan in the last quarter as the Browns were trying desperately to keep possession of the football.

Although Hutchinson has made only eight catches for the season, his 29.5-yard average per catch is by far the best on the team.

Bullets Roll 118-98 In NBA Contest

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Walter has taken it upon himself to carry this club on his back—and he's done it."

That's how Coach Bob Leonard describes the job done by Walt Bellamy of the Baltimore Bullets so far during the National Basketball Association season.

Bellamy, starting his third season in the NBA, turned in a sparkling effort Wednesday night as the revitalized Bullets whipped the Los Angeles Lakers 118-98. The 6-foot-11 pivotman scored 48 points—24 in the final quarter—and grabbed 29 rebounds.

The victory extended Baltimore's winning streak to three, modest by any standards, but a record for the team during its three years of existence.

In other games Wednesday, Len Chappell's basket with 32 seconds left at Detroit gave the New York Knickerbockers a 120-119 victory over the injury-riddled Pistons and the St. Louis Hawks, playing at home, pulled to within one-half game of the league-leading Lakers in the Western Division by defeating the San Francisco Warriors 105-83.

Chappell's clutch basket, which marked the 26th time the lead had changed hands, ended a five-game New York losing streak and dealt Detroit its seventh loss in a row. The Pistons, minus three regulars because of injuries, lost two of their remaining eight players on fouls. Chappell and Ray Scott of Detroit shared scoring honors with 30 points.

Bellamy came to the rescue after Baltimore blew a 40-20 lead and fell behind 75-72 as the final quarter began. In the next five minutes, he crammed in 14 of Baltimore's next 21 points as the Bullets pulled ahead 93-82.

Spring training exhibition games for major league teams will begin on Saturday, March 14.

Quarterback Jim Hill of Wyoming got off a 56-yard punt against Kansas this season.

Liston-Clay Fight May Be In Miami

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Is there a chance that the projected Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay fight may not be held in Las Vegas after all? Could it be that Miami is under serious consideration?

Las Vegas backers, who might be called unofficial exponents of positive thinking, profess to see no such threat. Jack Nilon, advisor of heavyweight champion Liston, flew to Miami from Philadelphia to meet today or Friday with Bill MacDonald, MacDonald, who sponsored the last Floyd Patterson - Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight, reportedly has offered a $625,000 guaranteed gate if the Liston-Clay fight is held in Miami.

But Ash Resnick, Las Vegas hotel executive and friend of Liston, showed no apparent concern. He said Nilon was just "doing Miami the courtesy of looking at its offer." He added: "I still feel we'll get the fight."

Resnick said Jackie Gaughan, an owner of the El Cortez Hotel here, could personally back a $400,000 guarantee.

"A $400,000 guarantee here is better than $625,000 in Miami," Resnick argued. His reference was to the fact the Miami area would have to be blacked out for television if the Florida city got the fight.

MacDonald, reached Wednesday night at his Miami Beach home, was also fairly confident. "I think we have a good chance to land the fight," he said. "We can give it the promotion that will add prestige to the boxing business."

"We have the best possible Convention Hall, parking, hotels, housing, police protection and transportation. Our atmosphere is clean—the very best."

And at Louisville, Ky., Bill Faversham, Clay's manager, maintained that no site had been selected. "Nothing has been settled," he said.

The Georgia athletic board accepted Griffith's resignation Wednesday, unanimously approved Dooley's selection and signed him to a four-year contract. His salary was not announced.

A native of Mobile, Ala., Dooley was quarterback of Auburn's 53 Gator Bowl team coached by Ralph Jordan. After serving in the Marines, he returned to Auburn in 1956 as a backfield assistant. He has been freshman coach since 1961.

Griffith, 39, said he has not decided whether to accept an offer to remain with the university in the physical education department.

Babe Parilli Is Named AFL Back Of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Babe Parilli heard the boo birds Sunday in the first half. He also must have seen the writing on the wall with the morning papers headlining the news that the Boston Patriots had drafted young Jack Concannon of Boston College for 1964.

With the fans yelling "We want (Tom) Yewick", Parilli gathered the Patriots together and led them to a 17-7 victory over the Buffalo Bills that booed Boston into a tie for the lead in American Football League.

On the strength of that second half comeback, Parilli was named today Associated Press Player of the Week in the American Football League.

The Babe threw a touchdown pass to Larry Garrison for 44 yards and set up another with a 63-yard pass to Art Graham. Parilli scored that one himself.

San Diego had a pair of candidates in Keith Lincoln and Paul Lowe, who led the Chargers to a 27-0 romp over Houston in a game that had been billed as a preview of the AFL title game. The defeat knocked Houston into a tie with Boston.

METHODIST COLLEGE ALL-AMERICAN Bob Hinchliffe (right) examines the "Hatchetman" Award he won with Mount Union College Coach Ken Wable (left). The senior linebacker from Leetonia made it two years in a row for the award as the best defensive player. He won single game honors four times with a total of 79 tackles, a blocked punt, and an intercepted pass.

Leetonia's Bob Hinchliffe Named On Methodist All-American Team

ALLIANCE — Mount Union College linebacker Bob Hinchliffe of Leetonia has been named to the Methodist College All-America first team.

The 6-0, 190-pound senior was a second team choice last year. It marks the third straight year for a Mount first-teamer on the honor squad which, along with a university unit, is selected from players at Methodist-affiliated colleges and universities across the nation.

Center Virgil Storio, now coaching at North Canton, was picked in 1961 and halfback Ralph Roberts, now coaching at his alma mater Austintown, Fitch, in 1962.

A pair of former Alliance High graders at Baldwin-Wallace College made the second team—tackle Larry Shinn and fullback Ernie Prince.

HINCHLIFFE CAPPED an outstanding season by being named honorary captain by his teammates and winning the "Hatchetman Award as the best defensive player.

He also was one of only two Raiders earning their fourth varsity football letter this season.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinchliffe, Washingtonville, he is an officer in the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and treasurer of the senior class.

He is majoring in biology and plans to teach.

THE FIRST TEAM selections represented 11 different schools:

DePauw, Ohio Northern, Willamette, Ohio Wesleyan, Puget Sound, Allegheny, Albion, Lycoming, Emory - Henry, and Southwestern, in addition to Mount Union.

Other schools represented on the second team included: Nebraska Wesleyan, Clark, Adrian, McMurry, and Clafin, plus Baldwin Wallace.

The university unit included such nationally-known stars as Northwestern quarterback Tom Myers and Duke halfback Jay Wilkinson, son of Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson.

Middies Will Probably Pull New Trick Saturday

Navy Gimmicks Took Army For Loop In Last 4 Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Coach Paul Dietzel and his Army football team might be excused for tossing around in their bunks these nights, wondering aloud:

Smith Is Glad He'll Be Back With Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' "man of the year" in 1955—Alphonse Smith—says it's going to be nice to get back to Cleveland where he played outfield and infield for five years before he was traded to the Chicago White Sox in 1957.

Smith, who will be starting his 12th season in the American League, was acquired by the Tribe Wednesday from Baltimore, which got Willie Kirkland and had to put about $25,000 in the package with Smith.

Kirkland, who has a .250 batting average for six major league seasons, hit 36 home runs in the last three years with the Indians. Smith had 54 in the same span and thinks his pace will pick up because the Stadium here is better for his right-hand power. He thought Chicago and Baltimore were tough parks for him.

Al probably will be used as a part-time right fielder, with Vic Davalillo in center and Leon Wagner in left.

ORIOLES MANAGER—Hank Bauer, above, veteran New York Yankee outfielder, and coach of the Baltimore Orioles, was named, Nov. 19, as manager of the Orioles to replace Billy Hitchcock, who was fired after the 1963 season.

"What is Navy going to pull this time?"

In recent years the Midshipmen haven't been content just to show up with apparently superior personnel. (They've won the last four games). They inevitably come up with a gimmick that seems to toss the Cadets for a loop.

It could happen again Saturday when the Middies from Annapolis and the Black Knights from West Point clash in their 64th meeting at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

Wayne Hardin, the red-haired Navy coach, seems to get a puckish delight out of springing nerve-jarring tricks which are kept in closest secrecy until just before the kickoff.

In 1959, the game that started the current streak, Hardin installed a brand-new formation for the Army game—a formation calling for wide flankers and plays not used all year.

Score: Navy 43, Army 12. The next year—1960—Army was expecting some more of the same skulduggery. The Knights were ready for anything—and were waiting for it. Hardin suspected this, so he didn't change a play. The other shoe didn't drop.

Score: Navy 17, Army 12.

In 1961, Navy warmed up in regular attire. Then, just before the kickoff, the Middies loped onto the field with their "Flaming Mamie" helmets. If the Army team was stunned, the 100,000 spectators were half-blinded. The helmets were painted with luminous aircraft paint—a garish orange color. On the sleeves of their jerseys, Navy men had inscribed: "Beat Army."

Score: Navy 13, Army 7.

Last year, the Middies had an answer for Army's celebrated Chinese Bandits, the defensive unit plan which Dietzel had employed so effectively at Louisiana State.

On the front of every Navy helmet were inscribed the words: "Jolly Roger." On one side was written the word "Beat" and on the other the word "Army." Nothing very trick about that, except the words were inscribed in Chinese.

Score: Navy 34, Army 14.

Eight major league teams have working agreements with the California State League clubs.

ROOKIE OF YEAR — Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox, a left-hander with a won-lost of 19-8, was named the American League Rookie of the Year for 1963.

'64 Pontiac

Here's why you'll like it.

Here's why you'll tell other people you like it.

Some people think it's a bit frivolous to like a car just because it looks so nice. So what you'll have to do is bone up a little on all the other things that make a Pontiac a Pontiac.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out.

Be careful, though. One ride in this car and everybody's going to think you're made of money. You can solve that problem by telling what you paid. Or you might just say, "You'd sure think this car cost a lot, wouldn't you?"

Or you could take everybody's mind off it entirely by giving your Pontiac some throttle. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. And you get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams. (Happy choosing!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for more vital things, why change? Improve, refine, sharpen—yes. Change—no. And you can tell that to your friends.

Really, though, you can buy a Pontiac solely because you like its looks. We don't think you'll find many people who'll ask you for more practical reasons.

What they'll be asking for is a ride—and the name of the man you bought your '64 Pontiac from.

NO COMPLAINTS

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) —
Highway Department officials got a pleasant surprise when they notified Philip Frank they wanted some of his farm for a right of way.

Frank told them to take what they wanted, that he would accept whatever payment the department wanted to make.

"For years," he explained,
"I've plodded over mud roads in Edmonson County. I'm willing and anxious to do anything to get them paved."

A word from

at the

Country Store

I see the boys are putting our Christmas merchandise out. I don't like to display merchandise for one holiday till the last one is over!

We do not have a big line of non food Christmas merchandise but we would like you to look over what we have.

We will be well supplied with the Christmas items you would expect to find in any first class supermarket.

When you are too busy to spend a lot of time cooking, come out and eat here at the Country Store restaurant.

Today's Steak Winner:

The "Regulars" who gave blood in October can't give this visit. If we are to make our 125 pint quota it means that NEW DONORS must register now at the Red Cross Office. There is no greater gift than the gift of Life. Call the Red Cross now and make an appointment.

PROBE CONTINUES

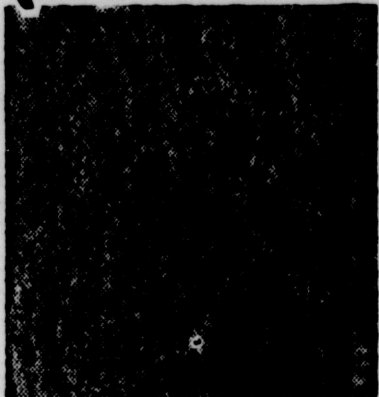

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Four more men will be assigned by Secretary of State Ted Brown next week to assist two of his investigators who have uncovered voting irregularities in Lorain's election a month ago. Brown wouldn't disclose the nature of the irregularities.

The investigation has centered mainly on the 5th Ward which has a large Puerto Rican population. Complaints were that persons voted under false names or outside their precincts and that persons representing themselves as election board officials entered polling places to campaign.

Do you own stocks which have advanced from their cost prices? Are you uncertain whether this is temporary? Have you inquired concerning the prospects of the companies and their industries? Are there complications of over capacity and low cost competition?

Are there other stocks in your portfolio which you are wondering about? Have you enough information on which to base a decision as to taking a profit on this one or a loss on that one?

Many investors in this situation regularly turn to Singer, Deane & Scribner for advice. Our Research Department follows the prospects of hundreds of stocks and industries. In many cases our customers have been able to profit from this information. If you would like to have an analysis of your investments, may we suggest that you send for our "Portfolio Review Form." There is no charge for this service. It's just one of our ways of making new friends.
